ANDREI SOROKIN

SOFTWARE DEVELOPER

Helsinki, Finland

Andrei is a self-taught full-stack developer who started actively coding one year ago. He was originally training to become a pilot at a civil aviation university. However, his passion for programming led him to earn a Bachelor's degree in software engineering from Bauman Moscow State Technical University, one of the top technical institutions in Russia. He gained experience through internships as a frontend developer and web developer trainee. To pursue his passion for programming, Andrei firstly relocated to Estonia to study software engineering and then relocated to Finland and worked as a sushi chef while dedicating his free time to honing his coding skills. During this time, he developed a website for DobroCenter, a Russian-speaking center for creative leisure. Andrei is known for his problem-solving abilities, fast learning, and unwavering determination. Back then, he mastered English to an Upper Intermediate level in two months.

RECENT PROJECTS

TheStore Redux (E-Commerce Website)

React, JavaScript, Redux, Redux Toolkit, Jest, TypeScript, MUI, OAuth, React Router, Other, REST API, UI, UX, Axios, dotenv

Independently built a website with an intuitive interface for product selection, sorting, and filtering by price, name, and category. Successfully completed the project as a task assigned in Integrify, demonstrating strong technical skills and attention to detail.

TheStore Backend (E-Commerce Website)

Node.js, REST API, Jest, Other, Express.js, TypeScript, MongoDB, Mongoose, Postman

Led a team in building a robust backend to create a REST API for an internet store, enabling product search, sorting, and selection by price, name, and category. Implemented individual enhancements to the project post-group collaboration. The project was developed at Integrify. During the project, I also utilized the following technologies: Nodemon, Passport, Express-jwt, Express-validator, Jsonwebtoken, Nodemailer, Cloudinary, Cors, Dotenv, and Multer.

Cypress, Jest, React, JavaScript, CSS, Node.js, MongoDB, Mongoose, Docker, Express.js, Postman

Created an application that allows users to add, delete, and like blogs, with each blog being attributed to its respective creator. Implemented secure functionality that prohibits unauthorized deletion of blogs by non-creators.Independently developed the project as a task assigned in the University of Helsinki's open university program.

DobroCenter

PHP, CSS, HTML, Other, UI, UX, PHPMailer

DobroCenter is a Russian-speaking center for development and creative leisure for children and adults. Developed a comprehensive organizational website featuring various information, a photo gallery, and enrollment functionality for events. Solely created the project for a Finnish company, adhering to requirements to build it using only pure HTML and CSS without utilizing React or backend technologies.
